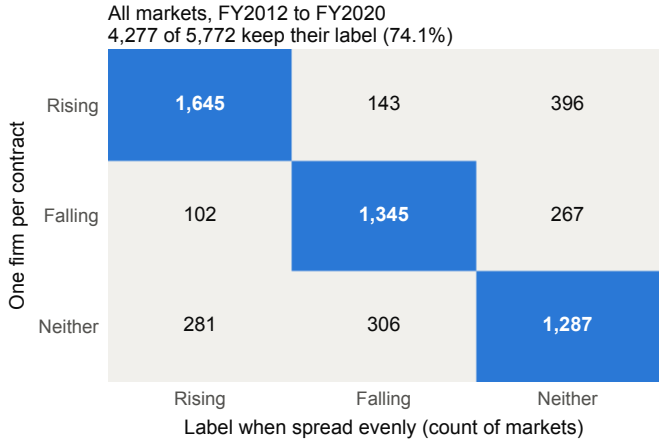
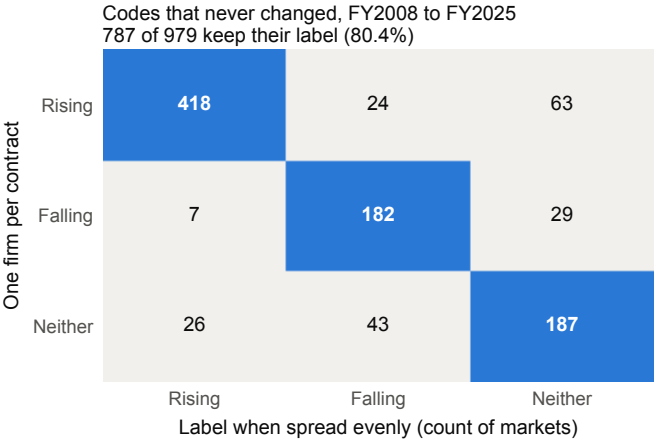
About three in four markets keep their label when contracts are spread




Rising, falling or neither at 500 points, with each contract under one firm, then after spreading. Blue cells keep their label.